But for Music Education. . .

*When we give ourselves to music-making,
music-making
gives back to us!*

Critical (and Creative) Thinker: Vic Firth

Vic was inspired to design a higher-quality mallet than the “warped utensils and implements not specifically designed for percussionists” while playing timpani with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

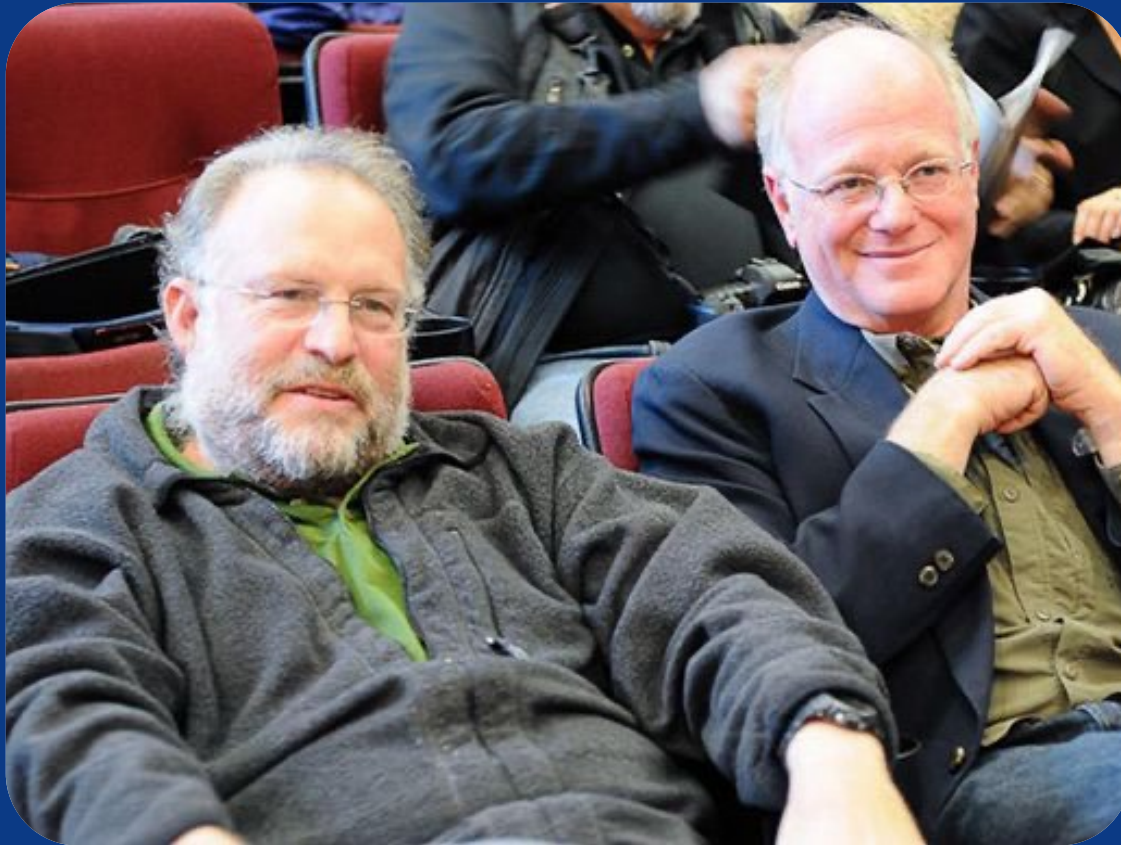

A photograph of a bassoon leaning against a music stand. A white sign is attached to the stand with black text. The sign reads: "IF YOUR ELECTRICAL DEVICE (WATCH, PHONE, PAGER, ETC.) ACTIVATES ANYTIME DURING THE CONCERT, YOU WILL BE REQUIRED TO GO ON STAGE AND -". The bassoon is a dark wood instrument with silver keys. In the background, a green book titled "DAY BY DAY" is visible on a shelf. The entire image is set against a solid blue background.

Communication

Whether it's the tone, the pitch, or the tempo, every element of music carries a distinct emotional resonance that helps convey deeper meanings, making communication more profound and impactful. It allows people to connect on a deeper level, build social bonds, and express themselves even when language barriers exist.

Pablo Casals

“Each second we live is a new and unique moment in the universe, a moment that never was before and will never be again.

And what do we teach our children in school?

We teach them that two and two make four and that Paris is the capital of France.

We should also teach them who they are!”

Thank You!
